

Spend some time reflecting on these questions by yourself
and then share your reflections with your colleagues.

Who do you think has the greatest responsibility for preventing stunting?
Families, communities, healthcare workers, government, or the private sector? Now ask yourself why.

How does your work contribute directly or indirectly to improving child nutrition and wellbeing?

Think about the one action you can take today to help children get the best possible start in life. What is it?

Enjoy!

THE LEARNING LUNCH PODCAST

The mission to end STUNTING

